“Welcome to The World of Norfolk”

This is a world where you can be as laid back (or busy) as you want to be. Where the only fast food is pulled fresh from soil or sea. Where there are no traffic lights. Where strangers wave as you pass by. Time moves slowly here. Even our Norf’k dialect has changed little. A salty remnant of Old English, it’s easy on the ear:

A Natural Island

The modern world barely intrudes in this place. For centuries, plants and animals have made this a temperate refuge in the middle of the Pacific. Our rainforests are home to the world's tallest tree fern. There are over forty unique plant species and over twenty species of birdlife.

You'll experience wonders almost everywhere. Come and explore our world. All we ask is that you tread lightly, as we do.

Phillip and Nepean Island

These two small, uninhabited gems bask to the south – just a short boat trip away. Disembark for a casual day trek around Phillip and you'll marvel at the majestic landscape with its variety of sea birds, unusual plants, beautiful flowers and rare fauna.

Botanical Gardens

Lose yourself in five hectares criss-crossed with lush, cool, walking trails. You'll encounter giant vines, tree ferns, whitewood trees and many rare, exotic rainforest species. But really, with 182 native species, our world is one big botanic garden.

Biking

Craggy terrain offers everything from gentle slopes to heart-in-mouth downhill runs. But wherever you go, the sheer beauty of the landscape will take your breath away. No need to bring a bike, there are plenty for hire.

Bird Watching

Wonders on the wing: you'll encounter red-breasted robin, green parrot and teal blue kingfisher (the nuffka). Each Spring we welcome migratory terns, frigate birds, mutton birds, shearwaters and boobies. They've been stopping by since time immemorial.

Horse-riding and Carriage Rides

Whether you're a beginner or an experienced rider, there's nothing like exploring on horseback. Take a detour for billy tea and damper. Not saddle-ready? Two placid Clydesdales will take you on a carriage ride down memory lane.

"Having my children grow up in an environment that's still so natural is a blessing. Bushwalking in the morning, snorkelling in the afternoon – and if we're lucky, we'll round out the week with a Phillip Island trek. Wherever you go, the environment and the views are inspiring. Always uplifting and full of life..."

Gardens

As you make your way around, keep an eye out for the many beautiful gardens that welcome visitors. Even their names conjure up images: Camelot Gardens, Music Valley, Strawberry Fields and Walk in the Wild – to name a few.

Bushwalking

Around a third of our land is made up of National Parks and Reserves. Over ten spectacular trails take you through temperate and tropical forests where you can see the world's tallest tree ferns. Follow loop trails to lookouts and coastal sea views. Walking trails are well maintained. Go rugged. Go romantic. Picnic among the pines...

Lookouts

Enjoy eye-opening sea views on your way to Mt Pitt, Mt Bates and the Captain Cook monument. Other breathtaking photo opportunities include Flagstaff Hill, Bird Rock and Puppy's Point.

Reserves

Admire them. Explore them. In our world, do everything at your own pace. Parks and reserves include Anson Bay, Bumboras, Hundred Acres, Cockpit and Cascade. Each is serene and delightful. You may encounter convict ruins, such as those along Kingston walking tracks.

BBQ Picnic areas

Our public BBQ picnic areas are great places for a break. We often use them ourselves. They're wood-fired and have tables and chairs. Find them mostly dotted around coastal areas – with spectacular views of course.

The Clearest Ocean

The pristine Pacific is central to our lives, and it encircles us. Immense schools of fish journey here on currents from its deepest regions. With no commercial fishing, the waters are always teeming. Along the diverse coastline are sheltered bays ideal for swimming, diving and boating.

Weather and water are generally mild and pleasant. Observe it from above or immerse yourself in it. Only one problem: you may never want to leave.

Swimming & Snorkelling

32 kilometres of diverse shoreline embrace secluded beaches. The two most popular are at Emily Bay and Slaughter Bay. The coral and sea life has to be seen. Grab some snorkelling gear and take the plunge. Or take a tour with a sea scooter... the fastest way to get around under the surface!

Diving

Enthusiasts travel from around the world just to dive in our waters. You'll marvel at the massive schools of fish, underwater caves and sheer rocky walls clad in coral. Visibility usually exceeds 20 metres, and there are over 30 world-class dive sites – suiting levels from beginner to expert. Crowds? Unheard of.

Sea Kayaking

Join a group tour and paddle your way around our rugged coastline. Pause to admire the crystal clear waters with immense basalt and sandstone rock formations towering above. Explore small inlets and hidden coves accessible only by water.

Boating

Prefer not to get your feet wet? Kick back on a cruise around our stunning coastline. Go on an adventure to Phillip and Nepean islands. Or marvel at tropical fish and coral in the lagoon through the glistening hull of a glass bottom boat.

Boarding

There are several prime surfing spots around the island and beyond the reef, so bring your board. Or you can hire a 'spy board', which is a relaxing and novel way to view marine life in the lagoon.

"The most spectacular element of our marine parks is the beautiful coastline. The contrasting landscapes, from towering basalt columns to the white sands, and the beautiful coral reef system. Get yourself out amongst the sea birds, whales, turtles and fish. You will be rewarded."

Fishing

We tend to call it 'catching' – and with good reason. Hire a rod and casually cast your line from a pier or beach. Charter a boat with a local expert and find yourself reeling in succulent Sweet Lip (we call them Trumpeter), Yellowfin Tuna, Wahoo and Great Southern Marlin – naming just a few. To complete your day, wood smoke your catch on an open BBQ. There are plenty dotted around the island.

A Lifestyle Like No Other

Feel as if your body and mind are being born anew. Do nothing at all, or pack it all in – from yoga to paintball; deep sea diving to mountain climbing. Explore our history and culture; seek out unusual wildlife; or hunt for bargains. Dining is a real adventure too, and you'll experience food as Nature intended.

Seasonal fruit and vegetables are bursting with flavour, and contented livestock slowly attains its plumpness. There are many cafes and restaurants, presenting a tantalising blend of Western and Polynesian cuisine.

Wining and Dining

Almost everything we eat is plucked from soil or sea. Locals and visitors often congregate for a cliff-top fish dinner – the freshest fish imaginable, complemented by locally grown salads (and stunning views). Some of our delicacies are even inherited from the legendary Bounty mutineers and Tahitian foremothers, such as banana-based treats like pilihai and mudda. Our sweet fruit pies are baked in heaven. You'll find more than 35 restaurants and cafes, offering a wide choice of gourmet delights.

Well Being

Surrender yourself to all kinds of luxurious pampering packages and treatments. After a day of adventure you can replenish mind, body and spirit with yoga, chi-gong, meditation, pilates or tai chi. Book those tired muscles in for a hot rock massage or re-mineralising body wrap!

Social Fun

Enjoy social activities including squash, tennis, bowls, archery, clay target shooting, pistol shooting, paintball, boxercise, gym, martial arts, triathlon and cycling. Or experience one of the most spectacular golf courses in the South Pacific! You may even like to plan ahead and take part in annual competitions and tournaments.

"What I love here is the great fish, variety of meats and the way people create dozens of recipes from seasonal produce. When you visit look out for passionfruit pie, sour milk bread with guava jelly, and my favourites –Hihi pie (periwinkles) and Dads' Mudda (a green banana dish)."

Markets

Sunday morning stop by the arts and crafts markets, where you can pick up locally made souvenirs or tantalising treasures like home made guava jelly, passionfruit pie and coconut bread.

There is a farmer market every Saturday morning with plenty of locally grown fresh produce on offer, or visit the fruit and veggie stalls dotted across the island with honesty boxes.

Shopping

For retail therapy, choose from over 70 outlets in the Burnt Pine area. Go to town on imported low tax products such as perfume, cosmetics, jewellery and shoes. But do take note – not all shops are 7 day trading, so best check beforehand. As a visitor the Liqueur Mart offers you 30% off spirits and liqueurs (another Norfolk nicety).

Galleries

Small galleries and craft cottages offer locally made souvenirs. Talented artists and artisans produce uniquely Norfolk fine arts and crafts. Fine pottery, painting, jewellery, woodturning, photography, textiles, weaving and plaiting.

History and Culture

A world where time moves more slowly. We are a unique people, descendants of the legendary Bounty mutineers and their Tahitian wives. They bequeathed us our language, our culture, and our approach to life. Here, elegant Georgian buildings are still in daily use.

There is only one streetlight, and you can park your rental car with the keys in the ignition. Complete strangers will wave as you drive by. We believe this is how life should be lived. In our world, it probably always will be.

First Inhabitants

The very first humans here were probably East Polynesian seafarers. It seems they arrived in the 14th or 15th century, stayed for a few generations, and then departed again. To this day, experts are still trying to figure out the details.

European Discovery

Captain James Cook first arrived here in 1774, aboard the good ship Resolution. He was evidently impressed – it was the only time he ever described anywhere as ‘paradise’. In those days, the island was uninhabited and he named it after the Duchess of Norfolk. She must have been a remarkable woman indeed to deserve such an honour.

Convict Era

Actually, there were two convict eras. Governor Arthur Philip established the first prison colony here in 1788, which lasted but a few years. The island lay empty until a second, much harsher, penal colony continued from 1825 until 1856. These days historians consider both eras important, and the Kingston area has been nominated for World Heritage listing.

Bounty Mutineers

The Bounty mutiny needs little introduction. Its colourful characters have been played over the years by movie legends from Errol Flynn to Mel Gibson. You may not realise we’re mostly descended from those colourful characters and their Tahitian wives. In 1856, the growing families relocated here from their original Pitcairn Island home. The move was decreed by Queen Victoria, and as a mark of gratitude, ‘God Save the Queen’ remains our national anthem to this day.

“We encourage visitors to connect with their past on many levels. Discover what was so special about the Melanesian Mission; why Polynesian dancing was banned, see the most important piece of Australia’s First Fleet history, and how the convict prisoners lived.”

Historical Attractions

In the convict cemetery, headstones provide detailed evidence of a horrific era. Take a stroll or a guided tour. Government House is also popular. Built in 1828, it is one of the earliest intact government buildings – not just here, but in all of Australia. It's open once a month to the public. And don't miss Fletcher's Mutiny Cyclorama, an amazing 360° pictorial display created by local artists. For a bit of quiet contemplation, tiptoe into St Barnabas Chapel.

Museums

Over 7 museums include unique items from the first, second and third Norfolk settlements; from HMS Bounty and Pitcairn Island; plus genealogy resources, agricultural tools and more. Here, artefacts date back to 1790.

Georgian Architecture

Many of our elegantly proportioned buildings were built by convicts.

They comprise possibly the southern hemisphere's finest collection of restored Georgian architecture. Several buildings do duty as museums, and you'll marvel at the wealth of artefacts on view.

HMS Sirius

HMS Sirius was the mighty flagship of the First Fleet. She was tragically wrecked on our reef, and artefacts recovered form a key part of our museum collection. Items range from massive anchors and cannons; to humble buttons and buckles worn by passengers and crew.

Number 10 Quality Row

Take a deep breath, this is history you can feel... A group of Fletcher Christian's descendents set up home at Number 10 when they first arrived from Pitcairn Island. The house has been meticulously restored to the way its occupants would have lived in the 1840s.

Local Traditions

A tradition handed down by our Tahitian foremothers, the art of weaving is still practiced on the island today. You can purchase handmade items such as hats and bags in shops or at the markets. Here, everyone waves and calls each other by nickname, such as 'Hook' or 'Lettuce' (if you don't believe us, check out our phone book!) You may also be lucky enough to witness the arrival of a cargo boat to the island – a procedure that never fails to entertain, because the lack of a deepwater port means everything is offloaded in nets onto small boats.
